

POETRY. SMUCH YE RIKMAINS UNSUNG." THE GREEN MOUNTAIN BOY. Ho! give me my father's silent gun Baptized in the blood of Lexington Baptized in the blood of Lexington; And over my youthful bosom fing. His powder-horn with its crimson string— And spread around me his blanket warm, That I may battle the winter's storm: So bless, me mother, with tears of joy, For I am a wild Green Mountain boy. For I am a wild Green Monitain object.
The hills that smile in the morning beam, and echo the eagle's matin scream;
The shady rivers that bowl along Lise the gusty tide of a drinking song;
The pensive vale, and the laurhing lea;
That came through the Revolution free;
They wait to echo my shout of joy,
For I am a wild Green Mountain boy. Oh tell me not that the South forget Oh tell me not that the sound now.

The breast that leaped to the bayonet,
When Entaw mingled her foundam's flood.
With the crimson tide of New-England blood,
And the soldier drooped 'mad the tasgued vines
And found a grave in the Carolines;
Oh, she'll receive me with shouts of joy,
For I am a wild Green Mountain boy. For I am a wild Green Mountain boy.

My grandsire stood, with his mountaineers,
By the sunny vales of the cavaliers,
And gathered amid the sylvan glen,
To the wild halloo of Marion's men,
And listen'd to Sumpter's rifles ring,
And lath'd his temples in Jasper's spring;
The rattling bullets he heard with joy,
For he was a wild Green Mountain boy. Ho! ye who boast 'neath a Southern sun, Ho.! ye who bonst 'neath a Southern sun, Have ye a greater than Bennington? Or sleep your fathers in glory now Above the dead upon Bunker's brow? Your martial spirits, in days gone by, Knew how the men of the North could die; And the baughtiest sneer cannot destroy The fame of the wild Green Mountain boy. My heart in its morning dream aspires To spring to the battle's signal note, And bid the dag of their glory float;

DOMESTIC.

And I would haste from the mountain gle To join the children of Marion's men; And loud the valleys should peal my joy, For I am a wild Green Mountain boy.

MR. MITCHELL'S FORGERIES .- Wall street was alive this morning with rumors of forgeries said to have been committed to a large amount by a late member of Congress. It turns out that the forgeries were made on drafts purporting to be drawn by the Bank of Orleans at Albion, on the City Bank of Albany, and that the person by whom they were negotiated was Charles F. Mitchell. He went into Wall street on Co. He went into Wall street on Tuesday, and was introduced to several brokers, whom he persuaded to discount the drafts, which were endorsed by himself. Last evening the drafts were returned from Albany, as forgeries, and Mr. Matchell not being found at his lodgings, it was presumed that he had absconded. About the same time letters were received from Philadelphia, containing several forged drafts, made by the cases, were for various amounts, from three hundred to

This Mitchell was a member of the last Congress, from the Niagara district in this State, and for the last eight years has been a resident at Lockport. He was extensively engaged in the flour-mill business, when Congress in 1836, and re-elected in 1838. During the last session he was one of the candidates presented to Gen. Harrison for the appointment of Navy Agent to this port. Failing to succeed in this, he became an applicant for a place in the Custom House. Mr. Mitchell has been strongly supported in his appli-cation by the Whig party, and was understood to be the especial nominee of Mr. Fillmore. We do not know whether the officers of justice have been sent in pursuit of him; but if they have been, and should he be taken, we hope that he will not be tried before the new Recorder.

We are told that Mitchell relinquished his claims to the office of navy agent, on the ground that he should be appointed to the auditorship in the Custom House The following letter has been addressed by the "honorable gentleman" to the editor of the Courier:

St. Augustine, March 22. }
From the West we learn that 60 more Indians have positively come in at Fort Fanning, and been sent down to Tampa; and also that Gen. A: stead has actually made a shipment to the West. This is very encouraging, but we must wait a while, before we can exult much in our prospects.

There is an uncommon proportion of women and children among those who have surrendered, and the whole number is but a fairing to what there are in the woods. With all our boasting we have not yet found out all their haunts, nor do we yet know what will be the effect of money and negotiations upon the larger parties. In our paper of Friday, the condition of things is stated in the fairest light that the times will

Col. Harney arrived vesterday from Key Biscayne, and I am happy to say has so far recovered his health that he never appeared better since his first arrival in Florida. He will shortly proceed home on a furlough, and you will have the pleasure of seeing one of the finest specimens of a soldier that can be turned out in the United States. Much as I detest corporate monopolies,' I would be happy to see the "Harney rate monopolies, I would be happy to see the "Harney Railroad" incorporated, even with "Banking privileges," to enjoy the monopoly of transporting all the Indians out of the country. THE MISSISSIPPI SLAVE QUESTION.

This great question, now involving the right claimed by the Abolitionists, for Congress to prohibit the transportation of slaves from State to State, came up in dians approaching in canoes. They gave chase, but the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Graves and Graham of Louisiana, endorsers of a note given in Mississippi on the 30th December, 1836, cy of the State as opposed to the slave trade, and rendered void all contracts in violation of that policy.
